SANDSPUR SUED FOR SLANDER

Yesterday the Sandspur was subpoenaed to appear before court to answer charges of libel and defamation of character. Says District Attorney Dan Pincetich: "It's an open and shut case. My assistant, Mr. Bieberbach, and I have been compiling evidence for the past two terms which justifies our indictment." Mr. Bieberbach echoes his superior's words with the comment, "Stick to your guns, Dan."

Other charges against the staff are enumerated below: conspiring to overthrow women's rules; black-mailing lower court; printing the truth; holding rabble-rousing seminars for dissatisfied Spanish-American War veterans; printing down-right filth and all that jazz; eating with their hands; peeking through council keyholes; and mixing their drinks.

His Honor, Don Bird Robins, handed down an immediate decision, or rather an epithet, but it is too gross to print (since the Sandspur prints only what's fit). In addition Bird sentenced each member of the Sandspur staff to attend fifty-three straight days of listening to reruns of all of Professor Edward's lectures.

The Sandspur staff replied indignantly, "In the course of human events, ask not what you can do for us, but what WE CAN DO FOR YOU! Just wait and see."

"'Tis a far, far better thing that we do now than we have ever done before. 'Tis a far, far better life we go to than we have ever lived before." Thus spake the final words of the SANDSPUR staff after their sentence from the court. Here is the tragic scene of the trial. No photographers were allowed in the courtroom during the proceedings. SANDSPUR: R.I.P.

Hill Hacks Hicks' Hair

Speculation concerning the fate of Dean of Men Fred Hicks circulated about campus last weekend, as students pondered the effect of his "Prince Valiant" haircut on the attitudes of the Rollins faculty, student body, and administration.

Last night, in an exclusive interview with the Sandspur, reliable sources released the contents of a memorandum from Dean Hill pilfered from the desk of Dean Hicks.

Dear Dean Hicks:

I am hopeful that the following comments will be received in a positive fashion without misunderstanding. As Dean of the College and a fellow faculty member, I have a concern about the appearance of my subordinates. Your indifference to commonly accepted standards of grooming have caused an adverse effect and impression upon the great majority of your peers, to say nothing of the impact upon the president and the Rollins image.

It is my fervent hope, as your friend and mentor, that you will seriously consider whether you might change in order to achieve a mature status among Rollins faculty. I believe that should you continue in your present dishevelled pattern you will be an unhappy and non-productive educator during a period which should be of maximum benefit to our growth and development. Will you please, therefore, return to the flock?

Concernedly,
Dean Hill

The SANDSPUR feels that Dean Hicks is sure to heed Dean Hill's warning--but as to WHEN, only his hairdresser knows for sure. Until the time he sheds his locks, he will continue to sport a "Sweet Prince" look.

Meanwhile, until Hicks hacks hair,

the hirsute Hicks will continue to hack Hill off.

I never knew how much fun it could be...OR...Take over for me, Gator, I gotta wash and set my hair tonight!...OR...From Mexican hairless to English sheepdog--what a difference a trip to Europe makes...OR...Miss Rollins? No--Dean Fred in drag...OR...Fred Hicks just had his hair styled--anybody gonna crack wise?...OR...Everybody should do his thing, man; and like, if I want hair, that's my bag, baby--and if Dean Hill wants skin--and no hair--that's his bag too.

Fire Raises Cloverleaf

Tragedy struck Rollins dormitories for the second time this year as Cloverleaf Cottage, for many years the dwelling of the Independent Women, was razed by flames last Friday night.

Closely paralleling the December Pflug disaster, the fire began on the back steps of the South wing where several women sat listening to the Lower Court session being held in the French House that evening. A spark from a cigarette ignited the boards of the porch and flames quickly spread throughout the entire structure. Lower Court Chairman Bill Blackburn was the first to notice the fire as he happened to look up when he smelled smoke. Dean Sara Howden immediately set off the fire alarm and made an attempt to rescue the porch spectators, who were still engrossed in the Lower Court proceedings, despite the fact they were being engulfed by flames.

Luckily, the residents of Cloverleaf were prepared for such an occurrence thanks to the evacuation practices that were initiated earlier this year in anticipation of the need to clear the building quickly.

The evacuated girls stood enraptured outside the blazing building as the automatic sprinkler system (installed last year in the dorm as a precautionary measure) began to battle the flames. The fire was quickly quenched before the fire department could arrive; however, a fault in the sprinkler devices prevented the cessation of water flow and within a matter of minutes Cloverleaf sagged suddenly under the weight of water.

A brief inspection of the building revealed that the dorm had sustained major damage due to the flames, but that the cottage was still suitable for inhabitation by its former residents. The only noticeable effect was a slight dampness in the laundry room and the total submergence of the dorm up to the second floor.

In an attempt to clear up this difficulty, a drainage project has been instituted, and it is estimated that Cloverleaf will be ready for re-occupation in two or three days.

Delta Chi Demands

Tougher Curriculum

A stern demand from the Delta Chi fraternity for "more rigid academic standards" rocked the IFC meeting last night, as the Delta's leading scholar, Jay Titus, expressed the fraternity's concern for the inability of the present curriculum to provide the student body with sufficient academic challenge.

"The Deltas feel that fraternities have a responsibility to members to provide for all phases of college life, not just social," said Titus. "We have tried innumerable times to impress upon the faculty and administration that the Deltas are unsatisfied with the Rollins academic standards, and now we feel it is time for the entire Greek community to stand solidly behind this demand so that we will no longer be ignored."

"If we are unable to motivate the IFC, we will have to use more cogent -- and perhaps not so peaceable -- means than we Deltas have employed in the past. Although we firmly believe in the importance of gentlemanly conduct, the situation has become so crucial the we can no longer stand silently by while this intellectual debauchery takes place."

Phi Delts Receive National Charter

By Bob Richardson

The SANDSPUR extends its congratulations to the Phi Delta Thetas who have finally been granted their national charter!

But we ask, "Why has this not happened before?" We cannot understand why this dynamic group on campus has not been recognized long before this date for its service to the school, the community and the nation.

The Rollins chapter was dissolved in World War II because so many patriotic Phi Delts chose to serve their country rather than to pursue fraternity life.

Since the colony's reestablishment at Rollins three years ago, it has distinguished itself as a pazzaz pace-setting group. While housed at the off-campus Pflug House, the Phi Delts greatly enhanced the school image by conducting themselves truly in a manner that really put the Rollins image on the map.

But the Phi Delta Thetas did not stop there. Their many accomplishments include teaching the Sigma Nus how to REALLY party, by demonstrating how to fly, by raising the academic standards of the college, and by assuming leadership in all areas of the campus.

Their greatest success is attested by the fact that in only three short years the Phi Delts have managed to fare where other groups have failed. Beer parties have been held with the "Big Three" on several occasions, and one such alliance has resulted in an engagement.

Yes, the Sword and the Shield have finally been rewarded for their many good deeds.

Promised Pub Opens

The opening of the Rollins "Senior Pub" marks a milestone in the development of the college. It serves as a symbol of the "coming of age" of Rollins, a tribute to the maturity and decorous conduct which the students have maintained throughout the history of the school.

Spearheaded by Speaker of the House Fred Gittes, the idea of the pub was introduced to the student body earlier this year. It was not until recently that the gift of anonymous donor, identified only as a former Rollins fraternity man, made the pub a financial feasibility. The pub is located in the area of the Student Center basement formerly used as Nona Gandelman's private office. Extensive redecoration has taken place, and those who attended the private pre-opening party expressed amazement at the transformation.

Thirty tables are surrounded by heavy wood paneling reminiscent of an authentic English pub. There is a small raised platform for live entertainment and the Pub Committee hopes to book several top-name bands in the coming weeks, if Jack Myers can arrange it.

Nona Gandelman has graciously volunteered to withdraw from the Student Center office and has since relocated in more spacious quarters--the broom closet next door.

On the question of patronage, Dean Howden was consulted to delineate the pub policy. "As everyone knows, Florida law prohibits consumption of alcoholic beverages by anyone under 21," said Dean Howden, "and the pub will stand behind the state law. However, since Rollins has always emphasized the strength of family ties among students, the pub will rely on the honor system. There will be no checking of ID's whatsoever. We trust students to uphold the policies of honor and truth that have long characterized the Rollins student body."

War-Whoop Sounds

Amidst beating tomtoms and war shrieks, Apache Jack shouted, "I come to the land of the White Eyes to be your Great White Father."

Apache Jack, alias Jack "Goody Two-Moccasins" Myers, has announced his desire to run for the Great White Fatherhood of Rollins. The War Council of the X Club refuses to tell exactly what the Great White Father's position is.

"No speakum with forked tongue of snake," grunted Apache Jack at the Sandspur reporter as justification for his running. "I speak straight like Trigger."

Campaign promises abounded. "Pot for every chicken. Talk softly and stick it. Heap big entertainment. . . Wilson Pickett and the Beach Boys. Big wampum in few pockets. Me makem rows and attack administration by night if they follow crooked in wagon train."

Sig Ep- Phi Mu Union Threatens Lambie Pi

Disclosed Tuesday night at an informal press conference was the union of the Phi Mu Sorority and the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity. This announcement explained mystifying reports of "black masses" and clandestine ceremonies which have circulated the campus, and carried an undeniable threat to a rival institution, Lambie Pi. As Jock Mc-Intosh, President of Lambie Pi, observed, "Reorganization and new strategy will be necessary if my sun-glassed group is to survive this danger." There is some speculation as to what the name of the newly-formed bi-sexual group will be. The three favored names appear to be: the Siggy Mus, the Musie Epes, and the Phi Spees.

Johnson Ends War

In a surprise triple-move today, President Johnson employed Presidential prerogative to pull the troops out of Vietnam, declare peace, and abolish the draft.

The text of the President's speech was this: "My fellow Americans, my recent decisions are based on considerable soul-searching and the fact that I've grown accustomed to my place -- the White House, that is; I kinda like it.

"What's more," Johnson continued, "we were gradually getting nowhere in our effort to wipe North

Vietnam off the face of the earth; we have napalmed their children; levelled their cities, villages, and temples of worship; and destroyed their vegetation with chemicals -- and yet -- we were unable to persuade them that they, too, could be a peace-loving democracy like the U.S. -- a peace-loving democracy, my fellow Americans, that allows liberty, justice, free speech, and free thought for all -- without fear of reprisal -- for peace marchers Americans, who believe as my dear friend and colleague, General Lewis

Hershey, and I, believe.

"And so, fellow Americans, this is a great day for America and the world. But let us look to the future with austerity, for we do have some problems, as a nation, to contend with: the Negro community, long neglected because government funds channeled into war, are up for a violent summer to end all violent summers; the value of the dollar is threatened, also because of Vietnam war spending; once-friendly allies now despise us for the stand we took on the war; our own country is rent by factions; the youth of the nation place no faith in politics and in government.

"And, fellow Americans, I'm sure I speak for the Vice President and the Secretary of State (don't I always?) in expressing our apologies for the way we acted. But we all make mistakes. That's why they put erasers on pencils. And we did give it the old college try. Sure, we were wrong now and then, but only because we like you. Progress is our most important product, and I'm sure that if you study the record you will be amazed at how much progress this administration has made in the past four years. So, this fall, cast a vote for me. Don't, whatever you do, be winked by the rabble-rousing appeal of those anti-American-dissidents-in-time-of-national-emergency, such enemies-in-times-when-the-President-really-needs-friends as those phony, emotional demagogues, Senators McCarthy and Kennedy. Don't forget who loves you most: God.

Beanery Cans Fishy Worker

Rumors have long circulated to the effect that something fishy has been going on in the Beanery. Yesterday, in a communique issued from the Administration Building confirmed rumor as fact: the Beanery Lady has been having a fling with one of the top bananas on the crew. That's no yolk.

In a confession attended only by investigative higher-ups, the Beanery Lady admitted that she was "really in a stew now," but that there was "no use crying over spilt milk."

"I was sick of meat-and-potatoes men," she sobbed, "like my first thirteen husbands--allemons. What I needed was some spice in my life--a tasty new dish--and that's where Dick came in (Dick is the alleged lover). He was the apple of my eye--no baloney. With him I felt like a young tomato again--and besides, I kneaded the bread again, man. Ah, Dick, sugar," she reminisced, "I don't regret it for a minute. How can I describe him? He was the cream in my coffee, my cup of tea. Oh, I know what you all think of me--that I'm a salty old dame and all that (boo-hoo). Why go ahead, then, think what you want--I knew what I wanted--on man's meat, you know, is another man's poison."

And if you want to get rid of me, O.K., I've got no beef--but as for the future, as long as Dick is mine, life'll be a bowl of cherries.

KA, Snakes Clash In Fraternity War

Last Wednesday afternoon Rollins College was the site of one of the most brutal gang wars in the history of Winter Park. Commented the Chief of Police, "We are accustomed to dealing with the violent activities of our residents over 70, but we never expected bloodshed at Rollins." The eruption came at 3:05 p. m., when the heretofore unbeaten KA's lost a back-gammon match to the Sigma Nus. As Warner Shook, leader of Lee's Angels, explained, "We can take it on the football and the softball fields, on the tennis courts and the volleyball courts, but the hallowed halls of Rex Beach will not be desecrated by heathen vandals."

Big Jack, head of the Snake Syndicate, clarified his position. "Duh, what could we do when Kibbe and Shook jumped us? All the guys had to defend our, uh, um, honor, I guess." The resulting fray lasted only 15 minutes, but the College fears that the upset will completely disintegrate the two gangs' once harmonious relationship. As Mike Corbett, who suffered a loss of hair, declared, "I can never forgive the Snakes' attempt at trespassing on our intellectual ground. It's not just a matter of red or yellow pants, but of our heritage of supremacy in the more gentlemanly sports."

Kappas Face June Draft

"The fate of seventeen Kappas threatened with induction into the armed forces upon graduation this June will rest in the hands of their local draft boards," says General Lewis B. Schnook, Director of Sexelective Service.

"However," he continued, "these draft-eligible young... people... will, in all probability--and I say this under close advisement--be among the first to be called upon to defend their virtue--and their country's virtue, too, in Vietnam. Continued the General, "and may I say that I'm really quite disappointed in this bunch of Kappas. In times past, Kappas have always been among the first to volunteer for enlistment."

Asked to comment upon their stand, the Kappas, normally gung-ho, spirit wise, said they think the war in Vietnam is "immoral" and "apolitical," --but--since they believe in "our country, right or wrong," they "won't protest if drafted;" instead, they'll "fight, right beside the other fellas."

Alpha Phis Demand New Erection

"We know what we're after, and we're going to get it" said an Alpha Phi fourth vice-president last week to the resounding cheers of approval of the rest of the Phees. What the Alpha Phis are clamoring for is a new erection. "I mean, when you've got to have it, you've got to have it," echoed a fifth vice president -- "and Pinehurst is the worst."

Pinehurst Cottage, the sorority's Present house has seen harder times. The ancient wooden edifice has been used as a classroom, a library, a men's dorm, and a gymnasium. A sixth vice president climaxed the interview, saying that "We don't want too much--just a little something satisfactory to all of us-- something that would provide us with more of a impetus to get together."

"In this day and age when the Greek system is crumbling," said the seventh vice president, "we feel the strong need for something to help us stick together."

When asked to comment as to whether they see a new sorority house on the horizon, they said, "Yes, we can feel it coming." Where would a new Phee House be erected? "We like our present position just fine," an eighth vice president assured us, "but we might like to try a new position if we find the lay of the land desirable."

Netters Edge Duke for Eighth

Juniors Ron Van Gelder and Cliff Montgomery teamed to defeat Chuck Smacke and Bruce Mahler 6-1, 4-6, 3-7, in the number one doubles spot Wednesday to keep Rollins' Tennis Week slate unblemished with a 5-4 victory over Duke.

Coach Norm Copeland's Tar netters entered a match with Cornell Thursday sporting a 4-0 tourney record and eight straight victories. The Tars defeated DePauw 6-1 Monday, Davidson 8-1 Tuesday and Jacksonville 6-3 in Wednesday's morning match.

Rollins takes on Davidson again Friday at noon, then resumes Florida Intercollegiate Conference play against Florida Southern Tuesday at 1 p. m. The Tars face Columbia at 2 p. m. next Wednesday and Friday.

Van Gelder, Montgomery, junior Jim Griffith and freshman Bob England gave Rollins a 4-2 advantage over Duke with straight set singles victories, but it took the thrilling doubles match to put the match away.

Rollins won all six singles matches against Jacksonville, but the Dolphins rallied to register victories over Copeland's reserve doubles teams. Junior Chick Hawley was the only singles starter extended to three sets.

Van Gelder was the only Tar loser to Davidson, falling to George Berner 6-8, 6-4, 6-2. Hawley, England and two of the doubles teams posted three-set decisions.

DePauw averted a shutout Monday when David Scanavino and Arnie Taylor edged freshmen Tony Gagliardi and Bill Tietjen 4-6, 6-0, 7-5. All eight Tar victories were in straight sets.

Ceccarelli Earns Tars Split With Princeton

Senior right-hander Jack Ceccarelli fanned pinch-hitter Steve Cashmore with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth Tuesday to preserve a 3-2 Tar victory over Princeton.

After facing St. Leo College in St. Leo Thursday, the Tars host Olivet (Mich.) College in a doubleheader beginning at 2 p. m. Friday. St. Leo invades Harper-Shepherd Field next Tuesday, while Harvard opens a three-game series with the Tars in a twinbill next Thursday.

Ceccarelli scattered five hits and struck out a record-tying 17 batters enroute to his fourth straight win. The 6-4 ace walked nine, but stranded 16 Princeton runners on the bases.

Princeton took advantage of three Rollins' errors and three singles to build a 5-0 first inning lead Monday, then coasted to an 11-2 victory. Catcher Jeff Burns' two-run homer in the sixth accounted for the only Tar runs.

Amherst sophomore Dave Cichon fanned three straight Tars after Rollins put runners on second and third with no outs Saturday as Amherst forced the Tars to share their Baseball Week title with a 2-1 victory. The Tars and Amherst, which defeated Rollins by an identical 2-1 score Wednesday, finished with matching 4-2 slates.

"STROOOKE...STROOOKE...STROOOKE..." the Tar Crew dunks Marietta in the upset of the rowing season.

Crew Defeats Marietta; Faces Test Saturday

Pointing toward the Dad Vail Regatta in Philadelphia, Pa., May 11, Rollins' varsity crew nipped college rowing champion Marietta (Ohio) College by four-tenths of a second Tuesday to win the annual Cypress Gardens Regatta in Winter Haven.

Coach Jim Lyden's Tars face another major test Saturday as they join seven other collegiate eights in the first annual Miami Invitational Regatta in Miami's new Marine Stadium.

Rollins races Tampa, Florida Southern and Jacksonville, while Marietta, Amherst, Brown and Columbia vie. The winners of each race meet later in the afternoon for the championship.

After battling Marietta the length of the 2000-meter course Tuesday, the Tar varsity passed the defending Dad Vail champs with a strong kick at the finish line to hand Marietta its first loss in three years. Rollins turned in a 6:29 clocking.

Florida Southern, which challenged Rollins and Marietta until the stretch, took third, less than a length in front of Tampa.

A year ago Rollins wound up less than half a length behind Marietta at Cypress Gardens. Marietta also defeated the Tars by two lengths at Lake Maitland for Rollins' only dual race loss in 1967.

In Tuesday's junior varsity preliminary Marietta bested the Tar JV by nearly two lengths, posting a 6:24.3 time, the best of the afternoon.

Rowing for Lyden's varsity at Cypress Gardens were Jay Gustafson (stroke), John Hansen (7), Tony Tremaine (6), John Tremaine (5), Dave Nix (4), Sandy Duncan (3), Fred Margeson (2) and George Kuta (bow). Senior Chris Wilder was coxswain.

The Tar varsity extended its dual race record to 4-0 with easy victories over Amherst Saturday and Marist College of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Monday.

Despite high einds and rough water the varsity logged its best time of the season, 6:07, while defeating Amherst by a length and a half. Marist lost by three lengths to the Tar JV, posing as the varsity.

Rollins JV boosted its record to 3-1 by winning both junior varsity events. The freshmen rowed JV against Marist.

Lambda Chi's Win Bowling

Lambda Chi survived a 4-1 loss to X Club Feb. 26 to edge the Clubbers by three points in intramural bowling.

Winning all its other matches by scores of at least 4-1, Lambda Chi finished with 38 points, while X Club, which was upset by the Phi Deltas 4-1 and TKE 3-2, checked in with 35.

The Phi Deltas and the Faculty-Grads challenged X Club for second place with totals of 32 and 30 points respectively.
